COURSE DESCRIPTION
Older adults are the fastest growing segment of our population and are maintaining their natural teeth much longer. Increasing numbers of older adults with more teeth means there is an increased need for dental care in this group. However, with advanced age often comes more chronic diseases and more medications to treat these diseases. This has the potential to make routine dental care and patient management more complicated. Understanding the implications of systemic diseases such as cardiovascular disease and diabetes and recognizing the unique needs of older adults will allow the dentist to provide safe and appropriate care.

This course will discuss the dental management of older adults and patients with complex medical conditions and provide the knowledge to assess the risks when treating this population.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES
After attending this program, you should be comfortable with...

- Treating patients with cardiovascular disease and hypertension including those taking anticoagulants;
- Managing patients with diabetes and chronic kidney disease including patients on dialysis and those with renal transplants;
- Assessing the risk in treating individuals with complex medical conditions and knowing when to treat or refer;
- Identifying medications which can impact dental treatment;
- Providing appropriate dental care for older adults.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?
Dentists, dental hygienists, dental assistants and all members of the dental team will benefit from this clinically focused program.
