The Minority Student Research Symposium (MSRS) invites students who are members of communities underrepresented in biomedical research to complete a research project of their choice using data from the All of Us Research Hub. Mentors are needed to guide students through the use of the Data Browser and support them as they prepare their research and present a poster during the symposium.

Mentors should:
- Have a bachelor's degree in Biomedical Sciences. Preference is for those who have a more advanced degree (Master of Science, Doctor of Philosophy, Doctor of Medicine).
- Have experience in conducting and presenting research.
- Be a member of a minority community and/or work at a minority-serving institution or community-based organization.
- Be inclusive of individuals from racial/ethnic minority groups and the LGBTQ+ community.

Mentors must be available to support two students from Sat., December 11, 2021 through Thurs., March 31, 2022.
