

R. Wayne Alexander Excellence in Research Award

This award recognizes significant contributions to medical knowledge realized through a body of research over an individual's career in either:

- Basic Research
- Clinical and Translational Research

Deadline: The deadline for all faculty awards nominations is Monday, June 8, 2020

Eligibility: All regular faculty (Assistant Professors, Associate Professors and Professors) with a primary appointment in the Department of Medicine of Emory University are eligible unless they have received this award within the previous 3 years.

Nominations: Nominations can be self-made or made by other faculty. Nominees should demonstrate a proven scientific impact in a specific area within their field, outlined in a one-page nomination letter (5000-character limit) and a one-page topic-specific bibliography (10pt font minimum). The nomination should highlight how the researcher impacted a field in a significant way through one or more of the following:

- A body of first or last author citations on a focused area of research in peer reviewed journals.
- Any national or regional awards given for the research outside of Emory University.
- A record of consistent funding on a given area of research.
- Proven national/international recognition of expertise in a particular field such as appointed field-specific advisory panels, writing committees and editorial positions.
- Research that has changed or created guidelines in medical practice.
- Significant intellectual property, patents or startup companies that have been a result of the body of research.
- A track record of committee participation in a particular area of research at national/international meetings.

Submission:

- One-page nominating letter (5000-character limit)
- One-page topic-specific bibliography (10pt font minimum). The bibliography should ONLY contain citations that are relevant to a specific research topic and may contain as little as two references.

Decision: Award nominations will be reviewed, and winners determined by the Department of Medicine Faculty Development Committee. Judges will focus primarily on the perceived impact of the research to the general medical community.

Award: The winner of this award will be announced during "Celebration of Faculty Honors and Awards".
