

CALL FOR POSTERS

Would you like to display your research or quality improvement findings as a poster?

At the 2023 Southeastern Critical Care Summit you may showcase your poster and share your critical care knowledge. You may submit either new or previously completed work; please submit an abstract or a copy of the poster to Marina Rabinovich at mrabinovich@gmh.edu by Friday, June 30th. Submissions will be reviewed and the presenters will be notified if their submission has been accepted by Friday July 7th (before July 12th early bird expiration deadline). Authors of accepted abstracts will present on Thursday, August 3rd and receive a 50% off registration for the day of presentation for the presenting author. See full requirements and information on our Southeastern Critical Care Summit website, www.criticalcaresummit.com

GENERAL INFORMATION

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Critical care is one of the most resource-intensive areas in U.S. healthcare and one where the quality of healthcare delivery is known to vary significantly despite substantial medical advances in the past decade. This symposium will provide targeted education for common critical care conditions and procedures to multi-professional healthcare stakeholders. This program uses interactive and case-based lectures from stakeholders at all levels (physicians, nurses, NP and PA providers, pharmacists, and respiratory therapy personnel as well as administrators), and hands-on teaching in breakout sessions. Topics of particular importance in critical care will involve roundtable discussion with stakeholders and/or breakout sessions; these topics will also be utilized for small-group discussions, teaching, and procedural education.

At the conclusion of this program, the participant will be able to:

- Accurately describe and summarize the most recent evidence based medical care guidelines and practice standards for common critical care conditions;
- Describe recent therapeutic advances in the field of critical care medicine which may directly impact optimal patient-centered care;
- Learn methods and implementation strategies that can be applied in your institution to ensure the application of patient-centered care according to evidence based guidelines;
- Provide practical hands-on education on common critical care procedures;
- Develop strategies to standardize and harmonize patient care across the spectrum of critical care providers and clinical conditions; and the management of common critical conditions.

PLENARY LECTURERS

ELIZABETH VIGLIANTI, MD, MPH, MSC

Dr. Elizabeth M. Viglianti is an Assistant Professor in the Division of Pulmonary and Critical Care at the University of Michigan and is the Equity Science Lead for the Department of Internal Medicine at the Veteran Affairs Hospital in Ann Arbor. She completed her undergraduate studies at the University of California at Berkeley, her M.D. from Duke University School of Medicine, her M.P.H from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and her M.Sc. from the University of Michigan in parallel with her residency and pulmonary critical care medicine fellowship. Dr. Viglianti's research focuses on improving the care of vulnerable populations—either from physiologic derangements or social reasons—and on the experience of and organizational response to patient-perpetrated sexual harassment. She also conducts research to understand the evolution of persistent critical illness and identify evidenced-based gaps in patient care that may be addressed to change the clinical trajectory to one of recovery.

This course is intended for critical care physicians, medical directors, nurses and clinical nurse specialists, critical care pharmacists, nurse managers, respiratory therapists, dietitians, rehabilitation specialists and NP and PA providers.

COURSE LOCATION

All sessions will be held at the Emory Conference Center and Hotel. The hotel is located adjacent to the Emory University campus at 1615 Clifton Road, Atlanta, GA 30329. For more information about the conference and directions, visit their website at www.emoryconferencecenter.com.

For your discounted rate, make reservations via the Summit website <http://www.criticalcaresummit.com>.

CONTINUING EDUCATION CREDITS

Separate applications will be made for AMA PRA Category 1 credits through Ochsner Healthcare Foundation, nursing education credits through American Nurses Credentialing Center and pharmacy credits through the Accreditation Council for Pharmacy Education. 12.75 ACCME credits will be available for the 2023 Summit if event is fully attended.

REGISTRATION INFORMATION

(SEE REGISTRATION FOR EARLY BIRD SPECIAL):

Early Bird registration (through July 12, 2023) is $200 per day for physicians and $150 per day for other health care professionals. Registration after July 12, 2023, increases to $250 per day for physicians and $200 per day for other healthcare professionals.

Written cancellations prior to July 21st will be refunded minus an administrative fee of $50. Thereafter, no refund exceptions will be made. Conference registration will be confirmed by email via the registration system. If you do not receive confirmation, or if you have any further questions, please email Paula Massey pmassey@emory.edu.

MEGHAN LANE-FALL, MD, MSHP, FCCM

Dr. Meghan Lane-Fall is a perioperative implementation scientist and practicing anesthesiologist and intensive care physician. At the University of Pennsylvania, she is the Executive Director of the Penn Implementation Science Center at the Leonard Davis Institute of Health Economics. Her research focuses on the application of implementation science to improve patient safety and communication in perioperative and critical care settings, but she has also conducted research on recovery after critical illness. She serves as the David E. Longnecker Associate Professor and Vice Chair of Inclusion, Diversity, and Equity in the Department of Anesthesiology and Critical Care, with a secondary faculty appointment in epidemiology. Dr. Lane-Fall is also Vice President of the Anesthesia Patient Safety Foundation and is on the Board of Directors of the Foundation for Anesthesia Education and Research.

ACCREDITATION

This activity has been planned and implemented in accordance with the accreditation requirements and policies of the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education through the joint providership of Ochsner Clinic Foundation and the Southeastern Critical Care Summit. The Ochsner Clinic Foundation is accredited by the ACCME to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

DESIGNATION

The Ochsner Clinic Foundation designates this live activity for a maximum of 12.75 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

DISCLOSURE

The Ochsner Clinic Foundation relies upon everyone in control of content at all sponsored continuing medical education activities to provide information objectively and free from bias. In accordance with ACCME and institutional guidelines, the faculty for this continuing medical education activity has been asked to complete the CME Disclosure of Relevant Financial Relationships form. If anyone involved in control of content for the activity does disclose a relationship with an ineligible company, their materials have been peer reviewed to mitigate any potential bias.
