

Daily Overview (March 24, 2020)

Intensive work on standardization of best practices related to COVID-19 is underway.

Safety:

- A modified shelter in place declaration has gone into effect for Georgia, with more stringent 14-day stay at home order for people of the city of Atlanta. Healthcare services are considered essential, therefore Emory Healthcare employees who reside within the Atlanta city limits are considered exempt.

Methods:

- Documents standardizing best practices for invasive procedures, imaging room cleaning, and reading room cleaning are being finalized for distribution.
- IR has begun virtual consents and virtual consults for inpatients, and is shifting to TeleHealth solutions for outpatients.
- IR is readying simulations for donning and doffing of PPE

Equipment:

- Emory and Grady home interpretation workstations for radiologists have been assigned and are being prepared for deployment.

Supplies:

- Additional sources of PPE continue to be explored and utilized.
- If you know of sources who wish to donate PPE, please contact covid.supply@emoryhealthcare.org

Staffing:

- A clinical skills survey is in development to assess the ability of our radiologists to flex into other spaces within radiology if the needs arise.
