

Dr. Charles E. Moore's Biography

Dr. Charles Moore received a Bachelor of Science from Union College and his medical degree from Harvard Medical School. He subsequently completed residency training in Otolaryngology- Head and Neck Surgery and fellowship training in Craniomaxillofacial – Cranial Base, Facial Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery at the University of Michigan. Dr. Moore is currently the Chief of Service in the Department of Otolaryngology – Head and Neck Surgery at Grady Health System and a faculty member at Emory University. He is currently enrolled in the Masters of Public Health Program at the Emory Rollins School of Public Health.

His research focus has been in the investigation of factors involved in healthcare disparity with a particular focus on head and neck cancer incidence in medically underserved communities. He is also actively involved in research of craniomaxillofacial trauma and anterior cranial base tumor pathology.

Dr. Moore is the Founder and President of Health Education, Assessment and Leadership (HEAL), Inc. As the founder of this organization, he strives to educate the community on health issues, assess its needs and in the process build leaders from within the community to address those issues. In this position, he has created a free and affordable clinic which provides healthcare in underserved areas in an integrated fashion. Dr. Moore is the recipient of the American Medical Association Foundation Pride in Profession, Excellence in Medicine Award and the 2011 Gold Foundation Award for Humanism in Medicine awarded from National Academy of Otolaryngology. He is the recent recipient of the Zenith Award for Community Activism from the City of Atlanta and the Rollins School of Public Health, Goizueta Business School Martin Luther King Community Service Award Recipient for his work in impoverished communities.