Lactation Rooms and Study Rooms

Emory Saint Joseph’s Hospital recently renovated the former library space on the ground level of the hospital specifically for residents and fellows for study, learning, complete with lockers (bring your own locks), a full size refrigerator, several offices and work stations with computers.

Within it is a small conference room that could also be used for lactation as needed. It is located on the ground level just passed the auditorium. It is marked with a sign, Medical Trainee Center.

Additionally, ESJH has a dedicated Lactation Room, which is located on the ground level adjacent to the visitor elevators. To obtain one-time use access, call 678-843-7568 for a public safety officer to unlock the door. For long-term access needs, visit the Security Office located on the Ground Floor of the main hospital, near the employee entrance and long hallway that leads to the Winship Cancer Center.

Please email your questions to Sharon Baldwin - sharon.baldwin@emoryhealthcare.org.