

Ann Schwartz, MD

Introduction:

I am a Professor in the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at Emory, currently serving as the Vice Chair for Education and Director of Residency Education for the general psychiatry training program.

Areas of expertise:

My primary clinical role is within the Consultation-Liaison Service at Grady Memorial Hospital, which is one of the busiest and highest acuity programs of its kind in the country. Here, I am deeply involved in teaching to psychiatric residents and fellows, and medical students. Beyond my clinical and educational responsibilities, I am actively engaged in service locally at Emory and on a national level, particularly through my involvement with the Academy of Consultation-Liaison Psychiatry (ACLP) and the American Association of Directors of Psychiatric Residency Training (AADPRT).

Relevant personal details:

Balancing these commitments with raising three children, my mentoring approach emphasizes both administrative and clinical skill development and professional growth.

Approach to mentoring and availability:

As a mentor, I will serve as a guide and resource, offering feedback and support for my mentee's professional development and career advancement. In addition, I hope to serve as a source of emotional support. I am available for short- or long-term engagement.
